For this final prompt of the semester, we would like you to imagine that there is a way to send a letter back in time. Specifically, we would like you to write a letter to yourself as you prepared for this class. What advice would you tell yourself about this course?

About this course, this course is super chill just enjoy it. And don't help other students learn how to code, they wont thank you and its their own task to learn how to code, and their own task to learn how to perform well in the class and other events. Especially if you dont know them a lot, they wont thank you and can also resent you, its wasting your time if you are not teaching assistant in this course. Just make use of all your time to do the most important things in your life, others are illusions.
